Newsletter for March 2013

"You see, Peter," said the angel, as I listened dubiously, "we've decided to go on the marketing offensive and embed a few ministers in popular TV programmes. We've put you into QI!" And before I had time to squeak a protest I found myself on the panel of the comedy quiz show. In all honesty, I think the celestial spin doctors could do better than this. The Almighty has suffered millennia of complaints, scorn, disbelief and satire without ever having recourse to sinking to the level of his detractors. The sun rises on the unrighteous every day and they begin their dawn chorus of defamation of the one who gave them life in the first place. He must be used to it by now. But sometimes QI annoys me so I didn't mind a bit of pay-back time on air. Although, reflecting afterwards, I probably wasn't the best person to put there.

It was all going quietly. I was demurely keeping my counsel, offering the odd slightly humorous interjection, answering nothing, and smiling vaguely through the usual barrage of smutty jokes from the panel. Then came the depressingly typical moment when annoying atheist-in-chief Stephen Fry showed a video clip of some ugly predator that captures and devours its prey with vivid cruelty. It's always a lower animal which devours something of a higher order – a larvae chomping on a frog, a fungus dissolving a live ant. You know the kind of thing. And then the complaint (there is nothing worse than an atheist who only seems to have one argument.)

"You see!" exclaimed Fry, "All things bright and beautiful, all creatures great and small, all things wise and wonderful, the Lord God made them all. How can you believe in a creator who puts such obscene beasts on the planet??"

"Excuse me," I interrupted, "that's hardly a fair quotation is it? All things bright and beautiful was written as a children's song, and there's things we don't talk to children about in graphic detail. You don't see CBBC airing Peppa Pig, Flying a Kite, followed by the announcer with a smiley smiley voice saying 'and next is How to Butcher Your Own Little Piggy and Turn its Entrails into Sausages.'"

The audience laughed and applauded while Stephen Fry held up his hands in surrender and acknowledged that we do tend to tell children about the brighter side of life. But I was in full flow.

"And you're not consistent either. You're a bon-vivant who loves beauty, whether it be in the arts or in nature. You step outside into the fresh air of a verdant British countryside, breathe deeply and utter a sigh of satisfaction. You don't head for the nearest field, throw yourself head first into a cow pat and come up complaining that life stinks. At least not until someone mentions God and then you suggest the whole universe stinks."

Minister: Revd Peter J. Cousins, 135 Penchwintan Road, Bangor LL57 2YG (01248 353878)

Secretary: Neil Rymer, 20 Brynteg, Llandegfan, Menai Bridge LL59 5TY (01248 713003)

Treasurer: Stephen Burrows, 39 Cil y Graig, Llanfairpwll, LL61 5NZ (01248 714048)

Church Office: 01248 353355; Email: office@penrallt.org; Website: <http://www.penrallt.org>

"Now you're not being reasonable . . ." began Fry, and no, I wasn't being fair but this was pay-back time and I wasn't stopping. "Here's the thing. All those clips of ugly little creatures which feed on more sentient ones are just an unattractive line up of creatures you wouldn't allow into your world if you were God. But God is a lot more tolerant than you."

"I wouldn't let those things near my world!" announced the atheist-in-chief.

"Of course not, because your world isn't a real one." I replied. "It looks more like a model railway layout with God substituted by a middle-aged, middle-class bloke with a paint brush and half a ton of papier mache. Real worlds are dangerous places. And in the end, here's another thing: which humans would you let into your world? I'm sure your friend Alan Davies here would have place of honour as archangel in your scenes of celestial tranquility, but would I make the cut? Would you let troublesome vicars into your world? Once again, I'm sure God is more tolerant than you, so if given a choice between your world of ethereal perfection and God's messy universe, I'll choose to live in his, not yours."

And as some of the audience clapped, and the rest laughed, the producer's voice sounded in our ears.

"Ok, guys. Let's move on."

I wasn't invited back.

God bless,
Peter

thoughts and emotions can be perceived as incompatible with the Christian faith and in these workshops we will take a critical look at how Christians can apply mindfulness in their lives. The biblical basis for this practice will also be examined and discussed. The workshop will include some practical meditations and discussion on how these can be integrated into our Christian lives. The practices will include some movement and sitting so comfortable loose clothing would be practical. In the final session other relaxation methods will be taught.

➤ Men's Curry Evening

Saturday 16 March 7.30pm

The men will be holding one of their curry evenings on Saturday March 16th in the Canolfan. Simeon Baker will be the speaker, and the music will be provided by the brilliant young guitarist Matt Dawson. Price of the tickets is £6 (available from Magnus). Please bring a bottle of non-alcoholic drink.

➤ Reminder: Parking next to the Church

We rent six spaces in the car park next to the church and you are free to use them at any time. They are clearly marked "Penrallt" but if full please do not park in the other spaces which are rented by various other non-church people. On Sunday mornings our spaces are reserved for those with mobility difficulties so would everyone else please park in the Nursing School Car Park on Sunday mornings. You can park in Morrisons on Sunday evenings.

➤ Penrallt on Facebook

100 people are signed up to Penrallt's Facebook site. Join us.

➤ Homeless in Bangor

Please do not give money directly to the homeless in Upper Bangor. We have found in the past that it has encouraged aggressive begging on the church premises by people who have a history of violence. You will find brown envelopes in the porch to put your gift in. This will buy vouchers which are distributed by the Cathedral to the homeless.

➤ The Prayer Room...

...is open before and after the service for quiet prayer. Penrallt is a place of prayer, so make use of this sacred space.

➤ Pray for Penrallt Every Day

Sign up to receive our prayer diary by e-mail every Monday morning by sending your request to: office@penrallt.org.

If you have some subject for prayer, either send it in by e-mail, or fill in one of the pink cards, which are available in the porch, and place it in the visitors' cards box or give it to Peter or Magnus.

➤ Pastoral Help

If you have pastoral concerns please contact Peter or one of the other members of the Pastoral Care team.
